This, the greatest banjo solo ever printed, is given away to show the wonderful possibilities of Farland's method of playing the banjo with a pick. It should be played at the rate of about 168 quarter notes (672 sixteenths) per minute, a few more or less, according to the physical condition of the performer, upon which, of course, the necessary pressure of "steam" depends.

Allegro molto vivace
Banjo (C Notation).

CONCERTO

As played by A. A. Farland.
Mendelssohn, Op. 64.

Ths is the solo played by Farland on the occasion of his debut at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, Pa., January 14, 1893, which was greeted with a storm of applause by an audience of 3,500, established his supremacy (which has remained unquestioned ever since) and gave him world-wide fame.

When used as the climax of a recital program of 15 numbers, or more, it is nothing unusual for musically intelligent audiences to recall him a half dozen times and insist upon encores. He is the only banjoist who has ever played this solo in a manner acceptable to such audiences.

Farland played this solo in the guitar style for many years. The extremely high scale passages, however, were taken an octave lower as it was next to impossible to make them strong enough as written, and, it being impossible to play the long trill effectively, also the rapidly repeated chords, it was necessary to substitute the tremolo for the former and single notes for the latter. He now plays it with a pick just as printed herein, in the speed mentioned; fingering every note as accurately as any violinist, producing a far better effect than ever before and with less effort; this, despite the fact that the banjo he now uses, is 12½x 20 instead of 10½x 19.

Copyrighted 1918 by A. A. Farland.

Farland is the only banjo player who has worked out and transferred to paper, the easy, natural ways of playing with a pick, the various combinations of notes used by good composers. He has for years taught his method by mail to hundreds throughout the English speaking world and has letters from practically all of them expressing satisfaction with their progress and appreciation of the opportunity given them to obtain the best instruction at a low cost. His concert tours have enabled him to hear many of his pupils and shown him that his original method of teaching by mail is a positive success from the pupil's standpoint as well as his own.

The searching questions which Farland's pupils are required to answer prevent them from overlooking anything, consequently they get a knowledge of the subject which would scarcely be acquired in any other way except under a thoroughly competent personal instructor who is familiar with the lessons, and questions and sufficiently conscientious to insist upon pupils learning them as Farland directs.

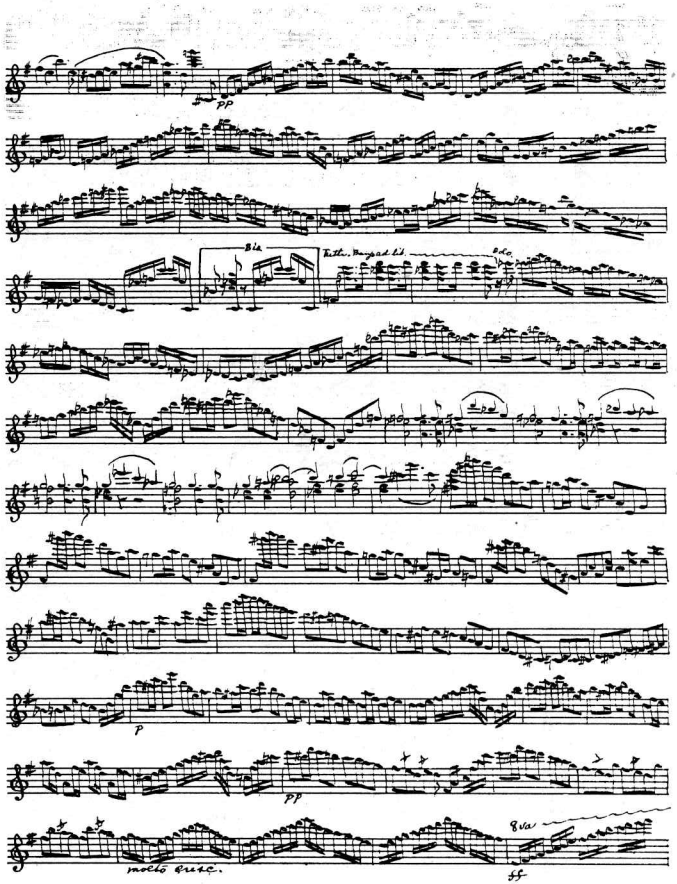
Farland is the only banjo player who has practically exhausted the possibilities of both finger and pick playing. He prefers pick playing. He detests pick "Faking" just as much as anyone else does.

The sooner you begin to learn Farland's lessons in pick playing the sooner you will experience the increased pleasure and satisfaction which the BEST and EASIEST method of playing any instrument always gives.

Farland's pupils are gradually led to a mastery of the principles of correct fingering and picking so that even as elaborate a composition as the Mendelssohn concerto presents no insuperable difficulties in these respects.



Those who learn but a portion of Farland's course of lessons can readily play any string part in orchestra music. The ability to read in the viola and 'cello clefs, is, of course, necessary to play the parts written for these instruments. Not hard to learn.

Farland's course of lessons includes every variety of music and a large number of the best banjo solos ever put on paper, so that students eventually acquire a repertoire that meets every demand for personal pleasure or public work. Pupils are also taught how to adapt and use the popular things of the day to the best advantage.

Practically all of the thousands of classic, "popular," sacred and secular songs are available as duetts for the banjo and piano and most of them can be rendered with good effect by the average player who has learned a part of Farland's lessons. Most of them are beyond the ability of the average finger player who cannot, or will not, develop the necessary tremolo movement which takes several years instead of several months as is the case with the pick. Besides this the range of expression possible with the pick is much greater and the quality of tone better.

Learn to play the banjo well with a pick and you can earn from $25 to $200 per week in vaudeville. Picture shows pay from $25 to $60. First class vaudeville theatres from $50 up.

Farland's lessons will enable you to fit yourself for this work in the shortest possible time. Practically all of the best known banjo players throughout the world, including Claude C. Rowden, Alice Kellar-Fox, Fred Van Eps, J. J. Derwin, Frederick J. Bacon, Myron Bickford, etc., etc., were taught by Farland, personally, by mail and through his instruction book and sheet music.

Caution—These are the only lessons or studies obtainable which teach a correct systematic method of playing the banjo with a pick. Beware of so-called methods and correspondence courses now being advertised, as they are full of errors and harmful, as they cause students to form bad habits in fingering, picking, etc.

As Farland is interested in every branch of the banjo business, from concert artist to manufacturer of instruments, strings, etc., and publisher of books and sheet music, he is probably more desirous of popularizing the banjo than any other person.

For this reason he is naming very low terms for the lessons considering the amount of time and labor (not to mention money) expended in preparing them, and the fact that each and every pupil's paper receives his personal attention.

TERMS: $10.00 for 20 lessons. The first 20 are all sent at once. Those not needed are replaced with others. No pupil accepted for less than 20 lessons. Additional lessons, 10 for $5.00.

Address orders, and make checks and money orders payable to A. A. Farland, 358 E. 2d St., Plainfield, N. J.

FARLAND'S PATENT BANJO AND MANDOLIN PICK is held to the first finger in playing position by a broad soft rubber ring adjustable to any size. This permits the pick to "wobble," which is necessary to secure a smooth clickless tremolo and the most effective legato in rapid scale passages, etc. No other pick can be held loosely enough to produce the fine shading possible with the Farland. Indispensible for beginners. Advanced players who get used to it wonder how they ever got along without it. Price 25c.

FARLAND'S VICTOR STRING stands the strain and the action of a pick or fingers longer than any other. Each and every string is guaranteed to give perfect service. False ones are unheard of. Pick size 15 for $1.00. Finger size 20 for $1.00. 1st, 2d, and 3d, assorted to suit.

FARLAND'S SPECIAL BANJO 4th is a real blessing. Stands the strain longer than any other, stays in tune as well as a first string and holds its good tone until worn out. Something which no other banjo 4th does. 20c each. $2.25 per doz.

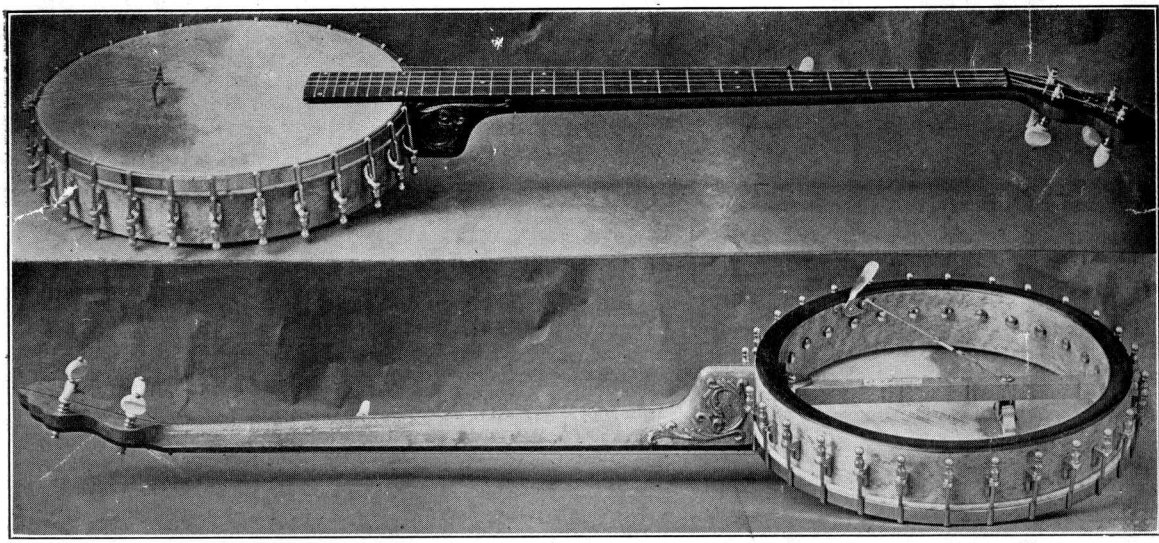
FARLAND'S PATENT ENAMELED STEEL BANJO HEAD is BETTER than skin in every respect. See or send for special circular.

NEW MODEL

FARLAND WOOD RIM SOLO BANJO

Most powerful and richest toned banjo in the world

4 OCTAVE



"Black Beauty," $50.00. "Concert Grand," $75.00. "Artist's Grand," $100.00. "Artist's Grand," No. 2, $125.00. Fitted with Farland's wonderful Harp Attachment. Steel or skin head, as desired.

Absolutely pure, resonant tones can be produced from this banjo up to within a few inches of the bridge and the extension fingerboard is of real use. No trouble to climb to the very last fret and beyond. Farland's lessons show how it's done.

You can earn one by selling tickets for a Farland Recital in your town. Write for particulars, date, etc.

For the best banjos, heads, strings, music, instruction books, bridges and everything in the banjo line send to

A. A. FARLAND, 358 E. 2nd St., Plainfield, N. J.

FARLAND'S PATENT BANJO AND MANDOLIN PICK is held to the first finger in playing position by a broad soft rubber ring adjustable to any size. This permits the pick to "wobble," which is necessary to secure a smooth clickless tremolo and the most effective legato in rapid scale passages, etc. No other pick can be held loosely enough to produce the fine shading possible with the Farland. Indispensible for beginners. Advanced players who get used to it wonder how they ever got along without it. Price 25c.

FARLAND'S VICTOR STRING stands the strain and the action of a pick or fingers longer than any other. Each and every string is guaranteed to give perfect service. False ones are unheard of. Pick size 15 for $1.00. Finger size 20 for $1.00. 1st, 2d, and 3d, assorted to suit.

FARLAND'S SPECIAL BANJO 4th is a real blessing. Stands the strain longer than any other, stays in tune as well as a first string and holds its good tone until worn out. Something which no other banjo 4th does. 20c each. $2.25 per doz.

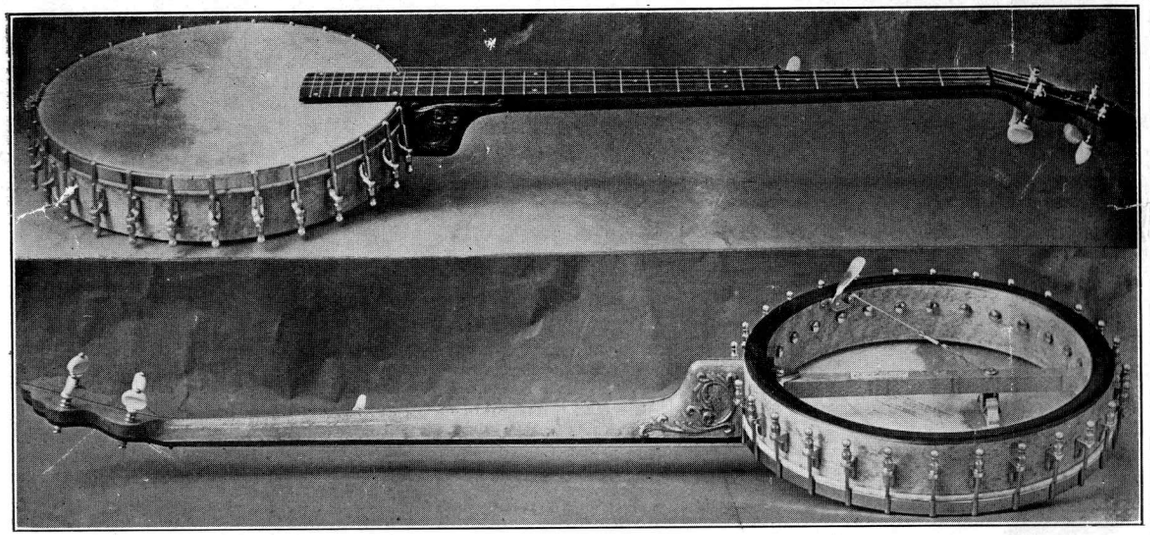
FARLAND'S PATENT ENAMELED STEEL BANJO HEAD is BETTER than skin in every respect. See or send for special circular.

NEW MODEL

FARLAND WOOD RIM SOLO BANJO

4 OCTAVE

Most powerful and richest toned banjo in the world



"Black Beauty," $50.00. "Concert Grand," $75.00. "Artist's Grand," $100.00. "Artist's Grand," No. 2, $125.00. Fitted with Farland's wonderful Harp Attachment. Steel or skin head, as desired.

Absolutely pure, resonant tones can be produced from this banjo up to within a few inches of the bridge and the extension fingerboard is of real use. No trouble to climb to the very last fret and beyond. Farland's lessons show how it's done.

You can earn one by selling tickets for a Farland Recital in your town. Write for particulars, date, etc.

For the best banjos, heads, strings, music, instruction books, bridges and everything in the banjo line send to

A. A. FARLAND, 358 E. 2nd St., Plainfield, N. J.

This, the greatest banjo solo ever printed, is given away to show the wonderful possibilities of Farland's method of playing the banjo with a pick. It should be played at the rate of about 168 quarter notes (672 sixteenths) per minute, a few more or less, according to the physical condition of the performer, upon which, of course, the necessary pressure of "steam" depends.

Allegro molto vivace
Banjo (C Notation).

CONCERTO

As played by A. A. Farland.
Mendelssohn, Op. 64.

Ths is the solo played by Farland on the occasion of his debut at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, Pa., January 14, 1893, which was greeted with a storm of applause by an audience of 3,500, established his supremacy (which has remained unquestioned ever since) and gave him world-wide fame.

When used as the climax of a recital program of 15 numbers, or more, it is nothing unusual for musically intelligent audiences to recall him a half dozen times and insist upon encores. He is the only banjoist who has ever played this solo in a manner acceptable to such audiences.

Farland played this solo in the guitar style for many years. The extremely high scale passages, however, were taken an octave lower as it was next to impossible to make them strong enough as written, and, it being impossible to play the long trill effectively, also the rapidly repeated chords, it was necessary to substitute the tremolo for the former and single notes for the latter. He now plays it with a pick just as printed herein, in the speed mentioned; fingering every note as accurately as any violinist, producing a far better effect than ever before and with less effort; this, despite the fact that the banjo he now uses, is 12½x 20 instead of 10½x 19.

Copyrighted 1918 by A. A. Farland.

Farland is the only banjo player who has worked out and transferred to paper, the easy, natural ways of playing with a pick, the various combinations of notes used by good composers. He has for years taught his method by mail to hundreds throughout the English speaking world and has letters from practically all of them expressing satisfaction with their progress and appreciation of the opportunity given them to obtain the best instruction at a low cost. His concert tours have enabled him to hear many of his pupils and shown him that his original method of teaching by mail is a positive success from the pupil's standpoint as well as his own.

The searching questions which Farland's pupils are required to answer prevent them from overlooking anything, consequently they get a knowledge of the subject which would scarcely be acquired in any other way except under a thoroughly competent personal instructor who is familiar with the lessons, and questions and sufficiently conscientious to insist upon pupils learning them as Farland directs.

Farland is the only banjo player who has practically exhausted the possibilities of both finger and pick playing. He prefers pick playing. He detests pick "Faking" just as much as anyone else does.

The sooner you begin to learn Farland's lessons in pick playing the sooner you will experience the increased pleasure and satisfaction which the BEST and EASIEST method of playing any instrument always gives.

Farland's pupils are gradually led to a mastery of the principles of correct fingering and picking so that even as elaborate a composition as the Mendelssohn concerto presents no insuperable difficulties in these respects.

Those who learn but a portion of Farland's course of lessons can readily play any string part in orchestra music. The ability to read in the viola and 'cello clefs, is, of course, necessary to play the parts written for these instruments. Not hard to learn.

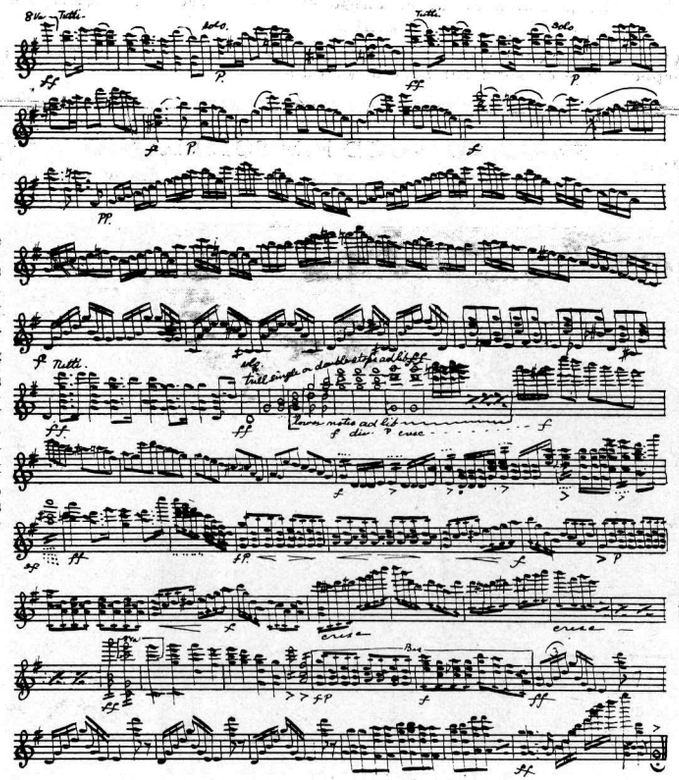
Farland's course of lessons includes every variety of music and a large number of the best banjo solos ever put on paper, so that students eventually acquire a repertoire that meets every demand for personal pleasure or public work. Pupils are also taught how to adapt and use the popular things of the day to the best advantage.

Practically all of the thousands of classic, "popular," sacred and secular songs are available as duetts for the banjo and piano and most of them can be rendered with good effect by the average player who has learned a part of Farland's lessons. Most of them are beyond the ability of the average finger player who cannot, or will not, develop the necessary tremolo movement which takes several years instead of several months as is the case with the pick. Besides this the range of expression possible with the pick is much greater and the quality of tone better.

Learn to play the banjo well with a pick and you can earn from $25 to $200 per week in vaudeville. Picture shows pay from $25 to $60. First class vaudeville theatres from $50 up.

Farland's lessons will enable you to fit yourself for this work in the shortest possible time. Practically all of the best known banjo players throughout the world, including Claude C. Rowden, Alice Kellar-Fox, Fred Van Eps, J. J. Derwin, Frederick J. Bacon, Myron Bickford, etc., etc., were taught by Farland. personally, by mail and through his instruction book and sheet music.

Caution—These are the only lessons or studies obtainable which teach a correct systematic method of playing the banjo with a pick. Beware of so-called methods and correspondence courses now being advertised, as they are full of errors and harmful, as they cause students to form bad habits in fingering, picking, etc.



As Farland is interested in every branch of the banjo business, from concert artist to manufacturer of instruments, strings, etc., and publisher of books and sheet music, he is probably more desirous of popularizing the banjo than any other person.

For this reason he is naming very low terms for the lessons considering the amount of time and labor (not to mention money) expended in preparing them, and the fact that each and every pupil's paper receives his personal attention.

TERMS: $10.00 for 20 lessons. The first 20 are all sent at once. Those not needed are replaced with others. No pupil accepted for less than 20 lessons. Additional lessons, 10 for $5.00.

Address orders, and make checks and money orders payable to A. A. Farland, 358 E. 2d St., Plainfield, N. J.